

Haiti Featured Prominently in New Environmental Stewardship Resource

Valley Forge, PA – In Tending to Eden: Environmental Stewardship for God's People, author Scott Sabin establishes theological foundations for creation care and provides a global perspective on issues including sustainable agriculture and forestry, creating enterprise, and empowering the poor. The book's practical strategies and case studies are born out of Sabin's experience as executive director of Plant With Purpose (formerly Floresta), a nonprofit organization working internationally to reverse poverty and deforestation among the rural poor, including those in Haiti.

Tending to Eden also features sidebars by leading voices in the Christian church who are passionate about environmental stewardship, including:

- Dr. Robert C. Linthicum, founder of Partners in Urban Transformation
- Dr. Calvin DeWitt, founding director of the Au Sable Institute of Environmental Studies
- JoAnne Lyon, founder and chair of the board of directors for World Hope International
- Matthew Sleeth, executive director of Blessed Earth
- Rusty Pritchard, president and cofounder of Flourish

The book concludes with a chapter-by-chapter Bible study guide for small group use.

Scott Sabin is available for comments and interviews regarding Tending to Eden and Plant With Purpose's work in Haiti.

About the Author: A national speaker in the creation care movement, Scott Sabin has been published in various periodicals including The New York Times and San Diego Union-Tribune. Most recently, articles have appeared in Christianity Today ("Trees of Life," November 2009), and Relevant ("Planting with Purpose," May/June 2009). Since the Haiti earthquake, Sabin has been interviewed on Fox 5 News, KBPS, and KUSI, all in San Diego.

Format: Trade Paper
ISBN: 978-0-8170-1572-5
Category: Social Issues

Size: 5.5" x 8.5"
Pages: 192
Price: $18.00

Pub Date: February 2010
Distribution: Spring Arbor/Ingram Book Co.
Anchor Distributors, STL Distribution, Baker & Taylor

For interviews with Scott Sabin, contact Kate McElhinney of Plant With Purpose at kate@plantwithpurpose.org or office line (858) 274-3718 or cell phone (925) 872-1642.

For more information about Tending to Eden, or to receive a review copy of the book, contact Kim Shimer, Judson Press marketing director, at kim.shimer@abc-usa.org or 610-768-2458.